

We should all be grandparents
before we have children!

Anyone can accept the truth - it's the lie that requires faith.

Stupidity is a social disease, you
catch it in school.

What do you mean, you study the scriptures?

Don't you have faith??

What do you mean you're running away from yourself. Why don't you just hide?

Claudius:- Hey, Brutus, if you we are going to remove their chains, how will we keep them in bondage?
Brutus: - Why don't you give them credit cards.

If the world made more sense, we'd need more critics: It's the law of supply and demand.

When I was younger, I tried to use my brain without thinking.

Snoo:- Hey Zy, What is success.

Zy:- That's where you walk the fine line between impressing your boss - and making him feel insecure because you can do it better.

Midge: Life sucks: I don't have a reason for living!

Psyena:- Don't have to work, uh?!

Snoo:- Hey Zy. What is the difference between freedom and slavery?

Zy:- Well, when you're free the chain is longer. And if you are lucky, you can't see it.

Impress your teachers. Laugh! -
Humor is a sign of intelligence.

Claudius:- Hey Brutus. If we introduce compulsory education,
how will it prevent all those bright kids from obtaining positions of power?

Brutus:- Academia, my dear Claudius. Academia. And disinformation.

Snoo:- Hey Zy, what is the difference between slavery and being born in debt?

Zy:- You can ignore the debt, Snoo. You can ignore the debt.

Nietzsche is best read misunderstood.

Wars are not meant to be won - they're meant to maintain a militia.

You don't have a purpose for living? Get a job!

We take great care in telling lies
for fear of being misunderstood.

He too is handicapped who has no
ambition.

Simplify, simplify! -- only fools
complicate.

Why do people ask if you believe in God? -- Shouldn't His existence be obvious?

Every idea needs an alter ego,
that is - to make itself important.

No respectable CONCEPT wants to be understood by just anyone.

Chains -- it's the invisible ones that are strongest and most difficult to break.

No wonder we only use 10% of our brain - the other 90 is committed to conformity.

Anyone can say something anonymously that is misunderstood for clever.

Lies are deceptions - truths made palatable for the masses.

Beware of lies for the truths they hide are far more sinister.

Putting one's thoughts on paper is more revealing than looking at oneself in a mirror.

Planning is overrated: it closes one's mind to the unexpected.

Thinking is an indoor activity.

It is not the intellect, but the imagination that is the gateway to genius.

If politicians knew what they were doing, we wouldn't need them.

Political correctness is the most acceptable form of censorship.

It is the obligation of the rich to keep the poor in poverty.

No educated man is without prejudices.

If you were really clever, you wouldn't have to think.

Thinking: the ultimate acknowledgment of ignorance as borne out by the expression: "Wait
a minute, let me think."

Why do you suppose they lock churches? Is it that God doesn't trust us?

All blind men are free.

Don't you want to know about the spare time activities before you opt for heaven?

Freedom is a condition of ignorance for it requires at least two equally unclear choices.

We avoid thinking to escape
making decisions.

We belie our faith in a God when we wonder "Why...?"

Claudius:- Hey Brutus, if I allow the people to form a democracy, how do I maintain my power and influence?

Brutus:- Just appoint yourself as the head of the largest multinational company.

No wonder my parents were poor. They never borrowed any money.

Hey Zy, how come some dogs are kept on chains and some aren't? Well, Snoo, it's sort of like democracy. You can only have freedoms if you cause no danger.

So God needs your help! ... With what?

In a schoolyard of nations the biggest bully would be the one that has the largest national interest.

What's with omniscience: Lucifer rebelled.

Survival of the fittest - a cliché, a term applied by the predator to the prey.

Life's great irony:- I want to die
to live forever.

Stupidity is a social disease; you
catch it in school.

Our fear of making decisions
belies our desire to think.

Why do you suppose they lock churches: to keep people out, or to keep God in?

Why does God need a goodwill ambassador?

Our greatest failures often become our greatest successes.

A clever comment inspires everyone's imagine:- it's so vague everyone can understood it and it leaves room for the most imaginative interpretations.

"Peter, get up in your room and study!" "But Mom, God wants me to be a fisherman."

Mockery is so much better than blatant prejudice: it justifies it.

Common sense: it's not that we don't have it; we are just too ashamed to show it.

Life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness: what a wonderful bumper sticker.

The world is coming to an end?
Literally? Not the whole universe?
Just Earth! A meteor is already on the way. Somewhere from Orion.
It's already been traveling for over a 100,000 years.

The best advice is confirmation.

Mockery - it's great self therapy:
You can despise them as they despise you.

It is said that women are more likely to initiate marriage - and also more likely to initiate divorce.

There is no such thing as faith: if there were, someone would actually have it.

Success is all too often the product of a misguided attempt at failure.

Hey, do you suppose that capitalism is unconstitutional?

If Athens was the cradle of democracy, Sparta was the cradle of capitalism.

Where would capitalism be without corruption?

The problem with the obvious is that it can't be shared.

The problem with our imperfections is that at best they can only be found in other people.

The human mind has tunnel vision:
it is designed to look only in one direction - backwards.

The reason we don't have world
peace is that no one wants it.

It's been said when trying to find the solution to a difficult problem that often the most rational explanation is the most plausible.
Well, the big bang - perhaps it was an accident.

Great thinkers are best known for what they said - about things they didn't understand.

Our culture began losing respect for the elderly when it started to treat children like adults.

All too often we measure our children's successes by the expectations we have set for ourselves.

The difference between life insurance and religion: regular payments.

Paper plates and plastic knives:-
it's a culture.

Just because it sounds clever,
doesn't mean it makes sense.

My Creator and I often play games: Sometimes He dares me to prove His existence; sometimes I dare Him to prove mine.

Same sex marriage: and who said
you can't be Platonic friends.

Have you ever wondered why
there are so few stupid toddlers?
Perhaps, they have not yet succumbed to an education.

There is only one answer for
"Yes." -- "Yes."

Born in sin: and they talk about crimes against humanity.

Have you ever wondered why
schools don't teach success?

Failure is so much easier a burden to carry than success - and it can be blamed on others.

It is so much easier for the clever
to adjust to mediocrity.

Hey, have you ever observed an ant and wondered how much of its brain it has to use to be a productive member of its society?

The difference between the human species and the humble moth is that the moth spends 15 days in the cocoon; and we, our entire adult existence.

Culture is the chrysalis of our existence. It is well we break it and see what's next.

Politicians: if they knew what they were doing, we wouldn't need them.

A solution that requires a debate
ain't a solution.

Some things are just more easily understood by the mindless.

Criticism works best when there is no solution.

Most recent studies on human intelligence indicate that the average person peaks intellectually at age 8.

A mother: a little red hen without the feathers.

I'm constantly amazed by how badly some people write to express absolutely nothing.

Life: perhaps the only gift given without prejudice - hence an accident, perhaps.

Perhaps we define ourselves best by the way we demonstrate our appreciation for the gift of life.

A problem by definition is a complication.

A clever comment, like any other form of art, is not supposed to make sense, but arouse the emotions.

A conundrum: We are constantly in search of like minds and kindred spirits - even those of us who hate ourselves.

The problem with memory is that it can not separate fact from fantasy.

Things we don't say! - meaning we do!

There ought to be an aptitude test to become a parent.

Conscientious teacher to student:
Why don't you stay home and study!

Student to school security person:
Are you the new English teacher?

So you are married; but why do you need a signed document?!

If I were any older, I'd be too clever for my age.

Who created this world for people fighting people? -- How sick is that?!

The best lies are truths ignored.

Even the best puzzles can be ruined with an answer.

Death - the ultimate rejection.

Why is it that people who say I don't understand why you don't do it, don't do it.

My mother used to say: if you can't say something nice, don't say anything. She didn't object to freedom of speech, merely freedom of expression.

One's sanity primarily depends on one's ability to accept that the world isn't.

Imagination: recall without memory.

The wonderful thing about humor:- you don't need to understand it to laugh.

It's one thing to desire change; entirely another, to desire progress.

Thinking: an activity of an idle mind.

Schools, thank god for schools.
Imagine keeping the kids home all day.

The problem with the atheists:
they have set too high a standard for God.

Credit cards weigh more than any ball and chains.

Post war stress syndrome, how strange. Killing people every day; watching, ensuring that you don't get shot at, that you don't get killed - it's so normal.

Dear Santa: Please give us back our house, give daddy back his job and bring down the price of gasoline.

Freedom: an action a culture permits an individual that causes
no damage to society at large.

There is a certain clarity of vision which can only be achieved by a closed mind.

The affluence of a nation can be measured by the wealth of its poor.

Have you ever wondered how a Stone Age man would cope in the computer age? - Turn on your T.V.

The elderly are blessed: A little touch of senility goes a long way in ignoring some of the madness of society.

Logic for dummies: Poverty is a condition of the poor.

Capitalism only works as long as the poor accept the chains of poverty with the hope of prosperity.

Mankind will never understand its dilemma; its simplicity is too profound for comprehension.

I sometimes wonder if nations were people: Who would your mother let you invite to your house!?

Logic for dummies: some problems do not have solutions.

Slavery is not just a social condition; it is also a state of mind.

A "road map for peace": there isn't one because nobody wants one.

Humor: an indicator of intelligence. Insanity: an indicator of genius.

Logic: the glue that bonds
prejudices.

Common sense: so termed in honor of the universal recognition of its absence.

The power of speech works so much better when you have nothing to say.

Endangered Species: It's unfortunate it's not the predators among us.

Progress: After 60 years I have become phone illiterate.

Brutus: - Hey Claudius, the slaves are rebelling; they going to fight for their freedom.

Claudius:- Capitalism, Brutus, capitalism! Why don't you take away their chains, give them a credit card and make them pay for everything. And, oh Brutus, don't forget to tell that if they work hard they can become wealthy like you.

Jules Levi:- "We have evolved into the most advanced species on earth because we have learned to enjoy exterminating each other."

Lying is often the only way to disguise incompetence.

Why do so many stupid people have such a high I.Q.?

If there is one thing life teaches us - everyone is suspicious of a gift: Why was I born, mommy?

The problem with great minds:
they so limit our way of thinking.

Logic for dummies: You can't fight for peace.

Originality: an accidental imposition of form on an otherwise chaotic event.

They're living the American dream
in China. They're not!?

Life is an obstacle course unwittingly designed by the incompetent.

Logic for dummies: I do my best thinking when I'm half asleep.

From Web designers and Gods: "If you are going to strive for perfection, you'll never get it done."

Logic for dummies: Why lie if you do not have to tell the truth?

Generosity: a genetic flaw in the poor.

Wisdom: A clever observation
about the life of another.

Levi: Hey Gus, how do you escape reality?

Gus: I get drunk

Logic - Its primary purpose : to justify failure.

The sweetness of the candy is in the wrapper.

Jake Horowitz: All great edifices are monument to the downtrodden
and the poor.

Who would trust an honest
politician?

Recent studies show that Einstein's brain was not damaged
by his childhood education.

If education really worked, there would be no need for tests.

You don't have to finish first to win.

All people are equal - some just make better choices.

Insanity is its own opposite,
everything in the middle is normal.

Logic for dummies: She was noticed by her absence.

If Common Sense had in some small way wanted to be associated with Intelligence, it would have found a better name.

If your child does not want to study, donate it to a third world country.

Logic for dummies: help control violence - get a gun.

Logic for dummies: Why steal if you are a capitalist; just charge more.

Moe Hamstring: Why have a gun, if you can't kill anyone.

Prometheus: First I must survive,
and then I can be an idealist.

Sisyphus: There is no point in learning to use a language accurately - the meaning is in how you are understood.
